THURSDAY, MAY 19.
THE RED RIVER VOYAGEUR.
REJOICE G. WHITTIER.

Out and in the river in winding,
Through the dusky pine land,
And dusty lanes of grain, Only at times a smoke wreath With the drifting cloud-racks, Johns.
The smoke of the hunting lodge
And heavy the hands that row.

Prerily blows the north wind From the land of ice and snow, The eyes that look are weary
And heavy the hands that row.

And with one foot on the water, And the other upon the shore,
The Angel of shadow gives warning That time shall be no more.

Is it the change of wild-greese?
Is it the Indian yell?
Thine own of a far-off bell?
The voyager smiles as he listens To the sound that grows apais And heave the hands that row Of the tale of St. Dunifree.

The bolts of the Roman Mission, That call from their curst twins To the bottom on the Red River, To the hunter on the plain!

Even so in our mortal journey
The better truth shall blow, And thus upon the Red River,
Our hearts as garmon row.

And when the Angel of Shadow Reels his feet on wave and shore,
And our eyes grow dim with watching,
And our hearts fail at the oar.

Happy is he who heath
The light of the Holy City,
The chiming of eternal peace.

Various Items.
The emigrant station of New York show the arrival of 14,841 agents, 16,409 for a corresponding period last year.

The friends of Daniel E. Sickles assure that he will be on hand next December, to claim his seat in Congress—and, especially, to claim millage and the three thousand!

Mexico, since its establishment as a Republic, is thirty-seven years ago, has had fifty-six Presidents, an average of one and a half annually.

Walter Scott declared that these four lines by Burns were worth a thousand rances:
"I have never loved a blind man—Never met nor never parted With a blind man, without his heart."

The Troy Times of Monday says that a man named West, who resided in the neighborhood of the Niskayuna Shakers, having been discovered in maintaining an illicit love with another woman than his wife, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself with a jackknife. He accomplished his "taking-off" in a very skillful manner, and before the physician arrived he was a corpse.

A chap who went from Louisville to Utah had the forethought to take several barrels of old Bourbon. He is selling it rapidly, and to a friend who wants to know where the most gold is obtained, he answers that the most of his is obtained from quarts; he spells it with an "n."

A GRAY LAW CASE IN ENGLAND.—In the English Court of Common Pleas, a case is now pending involving the title to property worth over $200,000 a year, together with some very interesting points in law and history. Its decision turns upon the right of Roman Catholics, under peculiar provisions of statutes passed soon after the accession of William of Orange, to inherit real estate.

A CURIOUS CASE.—A curious case has recently been decided in England. A Mr. and Mrs. Hambling were both killed by a falling building. The husband was taken from the ruins quite dead, while the body of his wife was quite warm. The question was raised, whether it could be safely presumed that the wife survived her husband, as this would cause a variation in the distribution of the property.
The Court decided against the supposition.

TRIAL OF THE WINANS STEAMER.—A trial trip of the Winans steamer was made yesterday morning, and proved entirely satisfactory to her owners. She left her wharf in the forenoon for a trip down the river to test the improvements made in her machinery, and with a fair head of steam attained a speed of forty miles an hour. The wheel made fifty-five revolutions per minute, and there was no difficulty by the heating of the journals.

PUBLIC DRINKING HYDRANTS.—A movement is on foot in some of the Eastern cities to establish drinking hydrants in the streets. The improvement is both economical and practical. Every citizen, at a small cost, can have water brought to his door, and the want of some convenience for getting a drink without the necessity of going into a tavern. With abundant supplies of fresh water, and miles of pipe carrying it under our feet, it seems a singular arrangement that one traveling the streets can get no mouthful of water for his parched throat, without begging or buying it.

THE WAR IN VIRGINIA.—Mr. O. Jennings Wise, the son of the Governor, and the editor of the Richmond Enquirer, is out over his own signature in answer to John M. Botts' last sard. Mr. Botts accused the Governor's son of using five points language. Mr. Wise replies by calling Mr. Botts a political swindler, a fair head of steam, a fraud, a traitor, a rascally man, who does not pretend to decent worldly morality in any respect or relation of life, and who resorts to a direct falsehood for the purpose of seeking a quarrel. The war is getting warm in Virginia.

OHIO STATE FAIR.—The State Board of Agriculture met, as announced, at Zanesville last Tuesday. The grounds chosen for holding the fair upon, comprise an area of 45 acres; part of it being the site of the old State Fair, and some portions commanding a very fine view of the whole grounds. The Board intended having the ground prepared from fifteen to twenty days in advance of the time of holding the fair and operations in fixing the grounds will be commenced this week. The Board arranged the premium list, and appointed judges.

THE CAUSE OF HIS DEATH.—The Placerville Observer thus accounts for the sudden death of one of the highest triers, who recently departed from the land of acorns and grasshoppers for the spirit land of Digdigger:
"Purified thus the luckless Digger, Perished, too, from drinking whisky, Struggled weakly, sharp as lightning,
But his time and strength he squandered
In a race with death, and at the end Very close to it he came.
Purified thus the wretched trier, By drinking whisky—drinking whisky—Struggled weakly—drinking whisky—
But his time and strength he squandered
In a race with death, and at the end

THE WASTE OF WAR.—In the sixteen years intervening between 1870 and 1815, the French army absorbed 4,500,000 men. The number raised by conscription for Napoleon's army was 2,470,000 men. The army of 1815 was composed of recruits from eighteen to twenty years of age. Of a million and a quarter raised in 1814, only 100,000 remained alive in 1840. France, in addition to this loss of her citizens, had to pay 700 millions of francs as indemnity of war to the allied powers, and 400 millions for the support of foreign garrisons. These figures show the cost of a war such as the powers of Europe are now about entering into.

French army absorbed 4,500,000 men. The number raised by conscription for Napoleon's army was 2,470,000 men. The army of 1815 was composed of recruits from eighteen to twenty years of age. Of a million and a quarter raised in 1814, only 100,000 remained alive in 1840. France, in addition to this loss of her citizens, had to pay 700 millions
of francs as indemnity of war to the allied
powers, and 400 millions for the support of
foreign garrisons. These figures show the cost of a war such as the powers of Europe
are now about entering into.
